Store Owners!

How Many of You KNOW How Much You Should

Invest in Advertising Annually?

There are times when business must be dynamited with advertising far beyond the possibility of proper return on the investment in a single day. However, as a rule, advertising should be used in the same way as electric lights, rent, personal salesmanship, window displays, etc.—sufficiently, steadily and as skillfully as possible. Your advertising investment should be big enough to do the job you wish to do. No more and no less.

You know that fire under a boiler makes steam. Yet a candle in a locomotive firebox will not move a train of freight cars.

Below is a table showing the average percentage of sales used for advertising as reported by the Merchants' Service Bureau of the National Cash Register Company.

Average Advertising Percentage of Net Sales

Store	Percentage of Net Sales
Beauty Shoppes	5.30%
Cleaning and Dyeing	3.3 %
Ceal	.55%
Department Stores, up to	4.25%
Florists	5.0 %
Furniture	7.2 %
Groceries (Independent)	1.0 %
Haberdashery	3.3 %
Jewelry	3.4 %
Laundries	2.45%
Men's Clothing	3.75%
Millinery	2.2 %
Restaurants	3.1 %
Shoe Stores	2.2 %
Specialty Shops	3.7 %
Women's Wear Shops	3.7 %

Are you treating your business fairly with your present advertising investment?

Are you one of those store owners who do not care to advertise and are satisfied with what trade happens to come drifting through the doors?

Why not turn over a new leaf and get started right be fair to your business as well as yourself.

Get in touch with the CITIZEN the telephone number is 18-11 and we will help you plan a campaign.

BETHEL NEEDS More and Better Sidewalks—winter and summer Night Watchman—All the Year Enforced Traffic Rules

The Answer Is Up To You!

When the final figures are up, it will very possibly be found that the automobile accident record of 1936 was the worst in our motoring history—from the standpoint of injuries and property damage, as well as fatalities.

Will 1937 further "improve" that record? The answer is up to the millions who drive cars and walk our streets and highways.

We make our cars mechanically safer—and accidents increase. We apply the most advanced engineering knowledge to the problems of highway construction—and accidents increase. We stiffen our traffic laws—and accidents increase.

It is a telling commentary on our driving habits that the worst accidents involve cars in good condition operating on first class highways under excellent weather conditions not even out works driving on icy pavement in a storm.
There is a percentage of drivers who habitually exaggerate the "safety factor" and the amount cost in 35,000 lives and hundreds of millions of dollars in property destruction.

The driver who stops on it—who weaves through congested traffic who disobeys traffic signals who regards pedestrians as a nuisance to be run off the streets—this driver is responsible for mass manslaughter on an unprecedented scale. Will the American people continue to countenance his ravages?

National Ideals Preserve Democracy

The nation has come to the end of an eventful year. For the first time since the worst days of depression, industry has felt the stimulus of better times, of broadening markets, of increased earnings. Prospects for the future are increasingly brightened.

Yet we must not be blind to the vital problems that all of us as individuals and as members of the economic and social order, still face.

The depression, for example, caused a great increase in the burden of taxation and more serious still, an unprecedented rise in public debt. The time for debating the wisdom of emergency spending has passed and the time for balancing our books has come. No less a figure than the President has said that it should soon be possible to meet costs with income, so far as the Federal government is concerned, and in achieving that to will have the wholehearted assistance of all responsible elements in our national life. Furthermore, once the budget is balanced we must apply ourselves vigorously to reducing the debt and thus eventually decrease the tax load. Such a program would give the strongest possible spur to the recovery movement.

The problem of unemployment looms almost as large today as it did at the abysmal low point.
Industry has pledged itself to do all within its power to curb this intolerable condition and in doing that it must have the help of the government, to the extent that no legislation be passed which will frighten and discourage the investment—the source of all productive employment.

Certain specific industries, in-spite of the progress they have made, are confronted with the gravest difficulties. The utility industry is a case in point. It has enjoyed a vast increase in power consumption—yet this has been largely offset by artificial depressants, of which the principal one is the constant threat of subsidized competition both from Federal hydro-electric plants, and Federally-backed municipal plants. It is encouraging to report, however, that negotiations are now under way to eliminate glaring inequalities.

Our largest single industry, the railroads, has felt the stimuli of freight and passenger traffic but recovery in material increases in this industry, like the utilities, is hampered by a salutary change in public policy in made. The railroads pay their own way and are rigidly regulated in every phase of operation. Other carriers to the contrary, are unregulated or half-regulated, and some are directly subsidized from the public treasury.
Furthermore, there is the threat of new laws—unsound in principle and unjustified in practice—that would in one way or another increase railroad operating costs at a time when the lines are supplanting deficits with modest profits, without providing means for the railroads to better their revenue in order to meet the bill.

In the field of merchandising, a field which is intimately connected with the welfare of every individual—there is the threat of laws that would penalize the efficient in the interest of the inefficient at the expense of the consuming public.

No it goes, down the roster of industries. Other businesses, insurance, mining, oil, manufacturing, and so on, are sharing in the recovery movement, but almost all of them are faced with serious man-made problems. These problems are also the people's problems on them depends employment, investment, progress of all kinds, and security for the individual. It is to the solution of these problems that we must devote our attention.

In conclusion, it would be well for us all, on the threshold of the new year, to look abroad at dictatorial Europe. In many great countries the free press has been abolished. Free speech has become a crime. All criticism of those in power has been silenced with imprisonment and death in some countries the right to worship has been abrogated by law, the state has been made divine, the dictator in power must be regarded as a god, and the individual has been reduced to an actual state of slavery.

While we pity the citizens of these nations, and wonder that such things could have come to pass in this century, we can learn an invaluable lesson from their plight.
We still live under a Constitution that guarantees us freedom of roll-gion, freedom of speech and freedom of the press. Upon the preservation of that Constitution and the liberties it guarantees depends the future of the United States and the American people. In the pursuit of an economic millennium we must not sacrifice national ideals and principles that are the very life-blood of democracy.

Persons You Meet . . .

HARRY T. SAWIN

Harry Sawin was born in North Waterford in 1867, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sawin, and was educated in the common schools and a high school of that place.

As a young man he was employed as a corn shop operator and can-maker and was thus employed in Waterford and North Lovell and in Windsor, Vt. He later worked in the store of W. S. Perkins at North Waterford, then bought the business of Mr. Perkins.

After selling the store he came to Bethel about 20 years ago. For several years he was employed in the stores of J. G. Brooks, G. L.
Thornton and the Inn & Fox Co., and by Bethel Inn. For several years past he has been the popular and efficient janitor of the village school buildings besides taking care of minor repairs throughout the town.

Mr. Sawin is a past grand of Ox-

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Dime Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual, National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare

One of the most interesting and potentially far reaching phases of future stability for the nation is the increasing interest shown by industry—and especially large corporate industry—in matters of social, as well as economic significance.

Prime example of this was provided at the recent annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers, representative organization of most of the big goods-producing concerns of the country.
The president of the Association, C. N. Chester (who in business life is Chairman of the Board of General Foods Corporation) sounded the keynote of the gathering when he said, "Industry cannot just sit back and enjoy the fruits of prosperity.
We must understand better what has been happening since 1929. Now that the course of the depression is behind us, tending itself in its entirety to analysts, it is the job for industry, general business and all affected sectors of our economic life to join in creating a national depression study committee."

Mr. Chester then presented 11 specific suggestions which he believes industry should follow. Business Week briefs them thus: 1. To continue making better goods at lower costs, raising living standards but defending personal opportunities; 2. Put all possible unemployables back to work; 3. Keep life in order; 4. Oppose monopoly; 5. Engender greater confidence in workers; 6. Promote public understanding; 7. Share the proceeds of industrial operations fairly among workers, management and investors; 8. Help create economic security for all; 9. While accepting responsibilities, insist that all other interested elements, including labor organizations, be made equally responsible; 10. Cooperate with government; 11. Join other groups in a preventative study of depressions.

These goals were approved by the delegates to the meeting. Most serious discussion arose over the Social Security Act which has many enemies as well as friends. But finally, the purpose of the Act was approved, though the Act itself was criticized in detail, a criticism that has been made often before and will very possibly lead to some revision of the measure in the next Congress.

The meaning of all this is that all industry is making a determined effort to strengthen every phase of industrial activity to improve employment and safeguard steady jobs.

The service industries are following suit. For example, the railroads and the electric utilities are doing everything possible to stabilize and increase their operations so as to employ the greatest number of persons and render the highest public service.

National political interest has naturally been focused on Washington during the past year. As a result, local governments have come in for only a modicum of attention.
In 1937, however, local politics will be of vital importance. During January, no less than 43 state legislatures will convene.

Before these legislatures will be many highly important questions.
One of these questions is that of relief. Federal appropriations for this purpose are gradually being reduced, and tremendous pressure will be brought on states to appropriate funds to supplement the lost Federal dollars.

Only a handful of states have yet passed laws to bring their citizens completely under the Social Security Act. In the bulk of states such laws will be up for debate and considerable discussion is in prospect.
Furthermore, in practically every state such local problems of more than ordinary significance will be an issue. The question of public economy and taxation is looming larger every day—and the collection and disbursement of public funds is being more closely activated. In at least one state, California, revision of the state constitution is considered.

Thus, during the next month or two, more of the political news in your newspapers will be given to state activities.

Long debated has been the proposal that the President of the United States should be restricted by law, to but a single term of six years' duration.

Prime argument in favor of the proposal is that under present conditions Presidents are virtually forced to build political fences during their first term in an effort to assure their reelection. The single term would stop that long established practice.

A bill to pave the way for a Constitutional amendment making the proposal the law of the land will probably be introduced in the Congress.

ing the social hour games were

The event was planned and carried out by her daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Grover, and niece, Mrs. Cella Gorman. Mrs. Brown had previously been invited to accompany a friend to a nearby town and upon opening the door to go to a car in waiting as she supposed, found a large circle of friends and neighbors who shouted congratulations.

After her surprise was somewhat over the guests were invited to enter the home, where cards were enjoyed until a late hour. Five tables were in play. Following the card games refreshments of cake and ice cream were served by the hostesses. Mrs. Brown was the recipient of many nice gifts, which included a beautiful birthday cake from her niece, Mrs. Gorman, also gifts of linen, money and china.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Bert Grover, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. John Poole, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas LaRue, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert R. TOO AGREEABLE

Jones and Brown were arguing over the merits of certain political candidates. "I wouldn't be such a fool if I were you," snapped Jones. "You're quite right," replied Brown. "You wouldn't."

And Jones hasn't spoken to Brown since. (Louisville Courier-Journal.)

"What happens when light falls into water at an angle of 45 degrees?" asked the teacher.

"It goes out, sir," said the bright pupil.

Ten Million People Given Employment By 16 New Industries In Last 50 Years

Study Shows Opportunity Created by New Inventions

New opportunities for labor created by technological advancement and invention in America during the past 50 years accounted for more than 12 1/2 per cent of the people employed in factories in 1929, a recent study by the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company disclosed.

Results of the study, published in the August issue of the magazine "Factory," showed that 16 new American industries born since 1879 had given direct employment to 1,110,714 workers in factories and manufacturing establishments. Counting the service and selling jobs created by these new industries, the total employment resulting is around 10,000,000.

Greatest employment has resulted from the automobile industry. Including motor cars, bodies and tires more than 630,000 were engaged in producing motor cars and parts in 1929 whereas there was none in the automobile manufacturing business 50 years ago.

*Source: Nat'l. Ass'n. of Manufacturers

Over 12 1/2 per cent of people employed in manufacturing are in industries which were unheard of 50 years ago. These five industries alone have given direct employment to over 1,000,000 people.

Close behind the automobile are electrical machinery and supply business with nearly 329,000 people engaged in 1929. Other new industries which were born during America's "Machine Age" include the manufacture of gasoline, rayon and allied products, typewriters and parts, mechanical refrigerators, aircraft, phonographs and several others. Total factory workers in America numbered 8,822,000 in 1929 with 12.5 per cent of the total accounted for by the 16 new industries, the study showed.

Official Conservation Program Not Announced

The 1937 agricultural conservation program, already announced from Washington for the country as a whole, has not yet been adjusted to conditions in Maine, according to A. K. Gardner, state executive officer.

He says the national program has flexible provisions that apply to various regions. The Maine state agricultural conservation committee of five at its next meeting soon will announce which of the optional provisions will apply to Maine. Fruit and vegetable growers are assured of a program in 1937 more satisfactory than the one in 1936.

Field inspections have been completed on 8,000 farms taking part in the program this year, Mr. Gardner says. About 6,500 farmers have qualified and will receive payments for carrying out soil-building practices and for shifting land to the growing of soil-conserving crops. Most farmers are expected to have their checks by January 1. Payments already received have averaged $44 a farm.

A statement from headquarters says field inspections started in August with local farmers as supervisors. These supervisors visited the farms, recorded the crops grown in 1935 and 1936 to determine the shift in acreage from soil-depleting to soil-conserving crops, and listed soil-building practices carried out. From this information, applications for payment were prepared and sent to Washington where the reports were audited and checks issued.

HOW I BECAME A RADIO STAR

By HELEN HAYES

When I was a little girl of eight in Washington, D. C., my mother took the initial steps which launched me on a professional career. She persuaded the Columbia Stock Company that I wanted to act, and knowing my love for "sweets", weighed them into casting me as a child prince who ate too much jelly cake at a picnic. They had really jelly cake, and the first time I played the part, I remember getting very sick. The May Ball at dancing school found me impersonating a Gibson Girl. Lew Fields, the well-known producer who was in Washington at the time, saw the performance. Later he asked me to play Little Nipper in "Old Dutch". I will never forget the opening night. Victor Herbert led the orchestra and "Diamond Jim" Brady and Lillian Russell were in the audience.

My parents insisted that I continue my schooling, and so I did, graduating at seventeen from the Sacred Heart Academy. Shortly afterwards, my career as a child actress ended with a part as the daughter of John Drew in "The Fredogal Husband". I loved the story, and remember so well playing dolls with the famous actor in the first act. Then began my friendship with a man I shall always admire with a man I shall always admire.

It was William C. Cagney and I will ever treasure the experience of appearing with him. Various dramas followed and I played three seasons in "Equipe" until the play closed in 1929. Then I tried Hollywood where I made several pictures including "Arrowhead", "A Farewell to Arms" and "The Sign of the Cross". I was lucky enough to win the Academy award for my efforts in the last named film. I soon decided that I wanted to return to the East as I could be near my family and the theatre. My first show was "Mary of Nazareth" and now I am playing the mother of Jesus in "The Sign of the Cross". I think it is the most satisfying part I have played.

HELEN HAYES

Just before "Victoria Regina" opened, I was approached to appear on a radio series for the first time. At the same moment I received another offer from Hollywood. Well, I chose radio. For one reason I was anxious to try my hand in a new field. But more important—radio would permit me to stay with my husband and little girl in New York and at the same time be close to the theatre. Last season I broadcast "The New Penny". This time I

At present I am thoroughly happy because I have my stage work and my family and at the same time the opportunity of reaching many new people via the airwaves. But I'm also a mighty busy body. I appear in the theatre six nights and two afternoons a week and Mondays and Tuesdays at Radio City. I have friends all over the U. S. who write me and I appear on a number of radio series. I think it is the most satisfying part I have played.

STATESMAN'S DAUGHTER

Maine Farmers Share In The National Recovery

Maine farmers have shared in recovery this year, according to statistics made public by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and other agencies whose task it is to record prices and income from year to year.

In September, Maine led the nation in percentage increase in farm income over the corresponding month a year earlier, with an increase of 80%. Most of that increase was due to the price of potatoes, but other enterprises have shared in recovery. Income from farm production in Maine in 1935 was $49,095,000, an increase of 50% over the 1932 figure of $32,659,000. During the first seven months of 1936, cash receipts of farmers were 90% greater than for the same period in 1935. The increase was only 20% for the nation as a whole.

Farm recovery and urban recovery have gone hand in hand. New automobile registrations in Maine, for example, increased 70% from 1932 to 1935. In 1935, a total of 17,215 new cars were registered, and in the first six months of 1936 new car registrations totaled 14,351. Payrolls in manufacturing establishments rose 27% from 1932 to 1935, and employment in the same firms rose 21%.

Potato growers saw a 1935 potato crop that was smaller than the 1932 crop by approximately 1,580,000 bushels but returned $12,380,000 more than the 1932 crop.

Poultrymen received cash income in 1935 that was 23% above 1932, an increase of more than a million dollars. Production of chickens and eggs, meanwhile, declined slightly. Dairymen, who produced about ten million dollars worth of milk in 1932, produced 6,000,000 pounds less than in 1935 and received $1,210,000 more for their total output.

Agricultural conservation payments will further increase income figures for 1936, for under the old adjustment program Maine received very little. The new program, which has already brought approximately $100,000 into farmers' pockets in the state, may bring several times that amount, according to early estimates.

Added Support For Grange Tax Plan

The Women's Legislative Council announced the receipt of a statement from the Maine Federation of Women's Clubs endorsing the Education Bill to be presented to the Legislature and asserting, "Real property is overburdened with taxes, and some new way will have to be found to provide the necessary funds."

The statement, signed by Mrs. Maybelle H. Brown of Waterville, Federation President, was released by Mrs. Haven Sawyer of Bangor, education chairman of the Legislative Council.

At a recent Augusta meeting the Council, on which serve representatives of all women's groups doing state or national work in Maine, voted to ask its member organizations for concrete tax proposals. The next day the Maine Congress of Parents and Teachers said through its President, Mrs. Nosi C. Little of Brunswick that it would support a program similar to that proposed by the state grange, combining a state income tax levy with a non-necessaries sales tax.

Mrs. Brown's statement said in full:

"To the Women's Legislative Council of Maine: The Maine Federation of Women's Clubs has, since its very existence been interested in and has worked for education. We wish every boy and girl in our state to have the advantages of a good school education. We are affiliated with a member of the Friends of Education. We believe that real property is overburdened with taxes and some new way will have to be found to provide the necessary funds to raise the standards of education in Maine."

Mrs. Sawyer said she expected statements from other groups represented on the Council to be forthcoming shortly.

Auto Transport Employed Many in State

Automotive, petroleum, and other industries connected with highway transportation provide jobs and wages for one out of every six persons employed in Maine's wholesale, retail and service establishments.

This statement, based upon new Census Bureau figures, was made by the National Highway Users Conference.

Other facts about trade and employment in Maine are revealed by the Conference's analysis, as follows:

Approximately one out of every six wholesale, retail and service establishments in the state, or a total of 3,045, out of 17,185 such establishments, depends upon the automotive, petroleum and allied trades for its existence.

Those trades, according to the preliminary 1935 figures just released, account for 19.4% of the total payroll of Maine's wholesale, retail and service establishments, or $5,235,000 out of $27,135,000.

The total volume of sales for all wholesale, retail, and service businesses in the state amounted to $265,350,000, of which $77,150,000 represented purchases by motor vehicle owners of all classes. From 1923 to 1935, the retail sales increased from $184,385,000 to $231,045,000, or 25%, while the automotive retail sales increased from $26,301,000 to $34,433,000 or 32%.

"These figures outline for the first time the current contribution of the automotive transportation trades to Maine's economic welfare," said Roy F. Britton, Director of the Conference.

"They show that purchases by the motoring public keep every sixth business house or service establishment in Maine from closing its doors, save every sixth person in the state's wholesale, retail and service trades from unemployment, and prevent almost one-fifth of the business payroll from drying up."

CARD OF THANKS

Those in charge of the Christmas baskets this year wish to thank all of the organizations and individuals who were so generous with their time and supplies. Thirty large baskets were distributed.

It is planned to make this an annual event.

Miss Avis Hinds returned to her school after spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hinds, Rumford.

Mrs. Gene Dally has resumed her teaching in North Newry, after spending part of her vacation in Lawrence, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Saunders were in Lewiston Monday, where he attended a meeting of the Dowd Manufacturers' Association.

Clement Worcester is sawing ice for the ice houses at Howard Pond.

OXFORD COUNTY UNITED PARISH

You better plan to have a very slight appetite this week. At any rate you will not be able to get it satisfied at a Circle Supper in the Parish until next week Thursday.

Then you can go to East Stoneham and there you will find your chance. The next evening you can betake yourself to Center Lovell and find another good supper. Probably you will also find a good time in each place after supper.

Sunday morning there will be a change in schedule for the services. Center Lovell, North Waterford and Waterford will be at the usual hour. East Stoneham will meet at 11:15, with Sunday School meeting before the church service. In the afternoon the Albany people will meet at the Town House School at 2:30. The Young People will meet in the evening at seven.

The Famous Players, North Waterford, are already at work on the Carnival drama. The second rehearsal will be held at the Odd Fellows' Hall next Tuesday evening. Say, young ladies, which one of you is to be crowned Queen of the Snows this year. You may be interested to know that the Outing Club is purchasing pins this winter, to be presented to all the past and present and future queens. This simply means that you must be excelling your skills and snowshoes as soon as you get the chance. In the meantime have a good time skating if you can find the skating. Perhaps you would rather try the sliding.

The Annual Church Meetings have been held within the week at North Waterford, Center Lovell, and Waterford. We can speak for two of these gatherings, at any rate, and say that they have been very happy occasions, with a supper or dinner served to a goodly number. We heard good reports from the third one also. Just let us say, unless you hear to the contrary, the Council Meeting will be postponed one week from the 14th to the 21st of the month.

Very sorry, indeed, were we on Monday morning to hear that one of our very good friends in Waterford had "gone on before." Many have enjoyed happy hours at the Wilkins House, and many from other towns have told us how fortunate we are in having such a useful and beautiful building in our community. At the same time too often have they not known that the building was the gift of Miss Baird in memory of a very dear friend. Yet the good times we have enjoyed have been made all the more pleasant because of the loveliness of the place in which we have met. We hope that the building may now have a still richer meaning for us as we think of the noble life and the generosity of a friend who has lived so quietly in our midst. One of the last acts of her life, of which we know, was a gift for the Christmas Boxes distributed by the Parish, and a letter of friendliness and sympathy for one who had been sick. May the memory of Miss Baird's kindly and generous living be an inspiration for us all to live lives on a higher plane.

GOULD ACADEMY NOTES

On Tuesday morning in Assembly C. Ray Hanson, criminologist, was the guest speaker. Mr. Hanson was formerly with the United States Department of Justice and Prosecuting Attorney for the City of Chicago, and is at present cooperating with the Police Departments of many of the large cities as an undercover investigator. He is on a short speaking tour covering several of the New England schools and universities. His subject was "Ganging Up On Gangland," in which he painted the modern gangster as he really is and not as he is usually depicted in modern fiction and newspapers. Much of the material used was obtained by Mr. Hanson, himself, from his own experiences with Chicago gangsters in obtaining information as to election frauds and consequent prosecution of the offenders. This talk also tended to create an attitude of critical consideration of modern problems connected with crime and criminals, which is one of those factors so vital in the character training of the present day boy and girl.

A very interesting program was arranged for the Girl Reserves meeting which was held Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 6. The meeting opened by having the roll call and singing several hymns, after which Margaret Tibbets read from the School Service Book. It was suggested to give a supper and tea to the Mothers and Daughters but no definite plans were made at this meeting. Vocation topics, dealing with the subject of Nursing were discussed by the guest speakers, Phyllis Davis of Bethel and Ellen Spear of Rumford. Christie Thurston read a short report on the school year and Jane Chaplin read an article on people's weight. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served.

"B" SQUAD OPENS AGAINST ANDOVER—GOULD GIRLS IN PRACTICE SCRIMMAGE

Friday evening at 7:45, the "B" Squad will tackle an old rival, Andover High, in its first game of the season. These teams have been playing several years and the games have always been close and hard fought.

The local boys have only, this week, started practice in earnest but have progressed rapidly and should be able to uphold their part of the play. The probable starting line-up will find Tucker and Young forwards, Crockett center, S. Howe and Brooks or D. Holt guards. Others due to see plenty of action are Hutchins, Waterman, and Cummings.

There will be a preliminary game at 7:00 featuring two picked teams from the Girls' squad. As the girls open their season next Tuesday at Mechanic Falls, this will give their supporters a chance to see them in action and judge their chances of success.

First game is at 7 o'clock and admission—only a dime.

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following selections from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Their bread indeed came down from heaven. It was the great truth of spiritual being, healing the sick and casting out error. Their Master had explained it all before, and now this bread was feeding and sustaining them. They had borne this bread from house to house, breaking (explaining) it to others, and now it comforted themselves." (Page 33: 6-12).
